

Thorsten Geier, Biebertal

Regen als Gefahr für unsere Landschildkröten?

Heavy rain as a danger for tortoises?

Abstract

Keeping my tortoises in Germany, I hibernate them in cold frames. In January 2007, the hurricane Kyrill devastated Germany. My enclosures and the cold frame with the hibernating hatchlings had been flooded. Here I give advice on how to avoid this when planning and building enclosures and which measures should be implemented to be prepared for such an occurrence in winter.

Key words

Testudines: Testudinidae, Testudo, keeping, outdoor enclosure, flooding

Author

Thorsten Geier

E-Mail: ThorstenGeier@gmx.de